UCL CULTURE

Cabinets of Consequence: Octagon Salon #3
Afterlives, 2 March 6.30-8pm

How do we use material culture to stitch together futures from pasts? What do we conserve? What do we get rid of? What do we allow to change?

This salon, involving members of the AHRC-funded Heritage Futures research team, will host three thematic conversations which aim to highlight tensions that relate both to the exhibition and to their research into how heritage and other conservation practices make future worlds:

Stasis – Transformation; Heritage – Waste; and Diversity – Clutter.

Heritage Futures* is a collaborative international research programme led by Professor Rodney Harrison at the UCL Institute of Archaeology. Further information is available at www.heritage-futures.org

Event held at Haldane Room, Wilkins Building , Gower Street WC1
